ANOTHER WARNING.

The effort to unload western fruit lands on Wisconsin farmers is still going on, although the degree of success is not known.

Nearly any sort of a gold brick can be painted and decorated to make it look attractive. Thus Florida lands, worth not over two dollars an acre, and actually sold in Florida at that price, is retained to the public with the assurance that "ten acres is enough," a statement which, standing alone is certainly true. Texas mesquite plains are unloaded at sixty dollars. California lands are offered at a hundred dollars an acre up, while the advertisements for the latest Colorado, the Kootenay region, are so worded that the average reader gets no idea of what he is expected to shell out.

The safe rule to apply to all these propositions is to regard them as fraudulent until the contrary is proved. Remember that farming and fruit raising is a business just the same as manufacturing or banking.

If a man should ask you to take bank stock on the basis of ten dollars down and ten dollars a month, you would not give him a moment's consideration. You would know that the scheme was "fishy" because banking enterprises are not financed in that way. The same is true with regard to stores and factories.

Just remember this. The west is full and running over with land. If you want western land, you can go to the west and buy it at just as good a price as the promotion concern can. You do not have to pay the retail price. You can go on the ground and buy land just as good as any of the colonization projects at four per cent of what agents ask for it.

Therefore, if you are convinced that the west is your haven, go and see it and try a little "ground floor" investigation before parting with your hard earned cash.

But before going that far, do a little comparative figuring and see if this state isn't a few degrees ahead of the Pacific slope as a field for your efforts. In all probability the western owner is trying to sell out with a view to coming back east.—Wausau Record Herald.

THE SUGAR INDUSTRY.

The sugar trust and other interested parties are deluging the country these days with press matter which shows that if the tariff is taken off sugar, it will mean a calamity to the country.

That is, many beet sugar companies will be compelled to close down on account of the low price that sugar will be sold for in the United States.

They say that the beet sugar industry can be developed so as to supply the entire demand of the country. But if you have to rob the working man and the farmer of two cents every time you sell him a pound of sugar, would it not be better to import your sugar and devote the soil to the production of some crop that would produce a profit on the investment.

Of course we do not believe that the taking off of the tariff would mean the closing of all the beet sugar refineries, but even if it did, we think the country would be better off in the end.

Whatever it costs to produce beet sugar over all the cost of cane sugar, the people have to dough up, and it comes right out of the pockets of the working men. If a family uses 200 pounds of sugar in a year it means that the man of the house is putting up $4.00 per year toward the support of the beet sugar industry. Rather an expensive luxury, these beet sugar factories.

If past experience has demonstrated that this is not a sugar raising country, let us cut out the sugar business and go at something that is a profitable crop. There are plenty of things that can be produced at a profit here without bothering with a thing like sugar, and that can be raised in warmer countries at a much lower cost.

Art of Engineering.

The close connection of the artistic and the mechanical instinct is shown again in recent developments in France.

France is doubtless the most eminent modern nation of the world of art. But in the past 30 years she has come to be one of the foremost in mechanical engineering; as the development of the automobile and the aeroplane bears witness. Coincidentally, there has been at least a relative falling off in her standing in art.

This looks as if the demand of modern times had turned machine-makers the genius which in an earlier day would have expressed itself with brush and chisel.

The artist and the engineer or inventor have the same faculty of seeing a thing before it is finished, the same sense of proportion, and the same intense desire to put ideas into concrete form.

When America pauses from her rush in mechanical invention, she will develop an artistic power that will astonish the world.

The students down at Madison can have all the Greek letter societies they want to, the bill to abolish these institutions having been killed in the assembly. That's right, too. About all some of these young fellows have to show for a college course is a fraternity pin, and it would be a shame to deny them, or their parents who foot the bills, this small boon.

Politics.

By placing the proper number of coins in the slot the political machine may be operated.

English Humor.

He who laughs last is an Englishman.—Princeton Tiger.

South Rudolph.

The J. D. Witter Free Traveling Library has been placed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Witter, at South Rudolph, Wis. The books are to be distributed among the people of the town and the time seems never to pass when the roads are muddy so the young folks are unable to go any place on Sunday. Get a nice book to read during this weather and the time will pass more readily. There are also magazines and Home Journals to be given away with the books. These magazines contain many short stories and are of interest to all. These are all of interest to all. These are all of interest to all. These are all of interest to all.

NEW ROME.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Thomas visited at the home of the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shipway at Big Plains on Sunday. They made a trip to Loyal Lake and returned on Monday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Witter.

Course Not.

"Did he kiss you when he proposed?" "Certainly, I wouldn't consider any but sealed proposals."

VERSES.

(From the Vesper Center.)

A petition was circulated the first of the week among the residents of Vesper to be presented to the state railroad commission for the purpose of having the gentlemen use their power to persuade the officials of the Soo and Northwestern railway company to install a telephone in the union station here. It would be a great accommodation to patrons, especially when the mud on the way to the station is shoe top deep. Let all boost for a depot phone.

Many other bargains. Give me a call.

GRAND RAPIDS BEER

The ruddy good nature manifest in those who indulge in an occasional good glass of beer, like Grand Rapids Beer, is proverbial. They are good natured because they have gained strength, health and vigor from its use. In striking contrast are the pessimistic coffee or tea drinkers and the optimistic beer drinker.

Report of Art Committee.
To the Members of the City Federation of Women's Clubs:

The initial effort of the Art Committee for 1912-13 was the suggestion to present another phase of Art for its annual exhibition program. This the Board of Directors sanctioned and Miss Carol Robinson, Madam Zeisler's foremost pupil, was secured for a piano recital which was given at the home of Mrs. J. P. Witter on September 26th, 1912.

The expense of the recital was paid from the "Art for Art" fund. The Board felt justified in this expenditure inasmuch as one phase of its altruistic work is to bring all the cultural elements available to the city.

The recital was considered a rare treat and thoroughly enjoyed by the members. The large membership of the Federation procured invitations to guests for a piano recital.

The Art Committee secured the services of Prof. Victor S. Holm, a sculptor of international reputation to give an illustrated lecture on American sculptors and their productions. The slides used were loaned by the Art Institute of Chicago.

The lecture was given at the Congregational church on September 6th, to an appreciative audience. The tickets sold by the committee and the door receipts covered all expenses and left a balance of $4.80. This the committee has expended in two Art books presented to the Public Library, one of which are "American Mural Paintings by King," "Pictures and their Painters by Bryant."

$2.50 repaid from the 1911-12 Art Committee is passed on to the succeeding Committee.

Grand Rapids, Wis., April 7, 1913.

Respectfully submitted,

Mrs. Barle Zeisler,
Mrs. A. L. Ridgman,
Mrs. Henry Demitz,
Mrs. E. B. Redford

Contrary to previous reports, it now appears that the plans of the English captain, Webster, to establish regular telegraphic communication between European ports and northwestern Siberia, was of the kind that Korynchuk has been disapproved by the Russian government, obviously for the reason furthering in every way the establishment of communication by sea between Pacific ports and northwestern Siberia via Bering strait, says a writer in the Scientific American. A surveying party, under Captain Grunfeldt, has proceeded to the mouth of the Koyana river, at the mouth of the Korynchuk, to make a thorough investigation of that port and the geologist, J. J. Karmadomskiy, and the hydrographer, A. A. Karmadomskiy, to the mouth of the Lena, including an examination of the Lena delta, with a view to establishing a sea route to the North Pole. The icebreakers, the Waimyr and Waiगतsch were to leave for Adirivostok in May for a surveying expedition along the coast of Kamchatka, and the Chelmsky was to accomplish the voyage to the European port of Archangel.

Contrary to previous reports, it now appears that the plans of the English captain, Webster, to establish regular steamship communication between European ports and northwestern Siberia, by way of the Arctic ocean and Kara sea have been disapproved by the Russian government, obviously for the reason that this bold undertaking, which appeared to be entirely feasible, would have diverted considerable traffic from the Trans-Siberian railway. On the other hand, the Russian authorities, who are anxious to establish a connection of communication by sea between Pacific ports and northwestern Siberia via Bering strait, says a writer in the Scientific American. A surveying party, under Captain Grunfeldt, has proceeded from Vladivostok to the mouth of the Lena, to make a thorough investigation of that port, and the geologist, J. P. Tolmatschew, will study the conditions of navigation between the mouths of the Kolyma and the Lena, and will, in view of the results he deals with, a letter to establishing a sea route to the latter region. The icebreakers Talmir and Walgatsch were to leave Vladivostok in May for a surveying expedition along the coast of Kamchatka, after which they will proceed via Bering strait to the arctic coast of Siberia for a cruise at least as far west as the Lena. If ice conditions to prove favorable, these vessels will attempt to pass Cape Chelyuskin and accomplish the northeast passage to the European port of Archangel.

OBITUARY.

(Contributed)
Saturday morning, April 12th, witnessed the passing away of Thelma Nettie Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Clark of Milladore, Wis. The little one would have been six years old had she lived until May 5. Thelma was born at Rudolph, Wis., in the year 1907. Up until about one year ago she had been enjoying apparently good health, when she was taken violently ill and was taken to the Riverview hospital where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. Everyone at that time expected her death but she slowly recuperated and it was thought that she would eventually regain her former health. Monday, April 7th, she was again taken ill, and was taken to the Grand Rapids hospital where on Thursday she was operated on again for acute bowel obstruction, and died Saturday morning at 12:05 a. m. The body was taken to Rudolph to the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark from which place the funeral services took place Monday, April 14, Rev. Logan of the Grand Rapids Methodist church officiating. Interment was made at the Forest Hill cemetery with J. R. Ragan directing. The deceased's immediate family, who mourn her loss, is father and mother, and two sisters, Violet and Dorothy. The grandparents feel the loss of the child almost as greatly for the little one was a great favorite and frequent visitor at their home. A number of out of town relatives were present at the funeral. The death of this little one was a most touching one. From the first she showed a heroic attitude and unlimited courage in her intense suffering. She wanted to live but when she knew death was certain she uttered many sweet words and talked of things celestial, much beyond her years. The parents to whom we extend the deepest sympathy, can feel assured that the little one's happiness did not stop at death, for her own utterances attested much beyond. Like a bud full of beauty and fragrance. That opens in the warm spring day. Came our darling to bless and cheer us in the beautiful month of May. She came when the grass is greenest. When earth wears the smile of spring. When the joy of life seems sweetest. And hearts with its spirit ring. Her life was a message of gladness. Six beautiful years of love. Until God in his infinite wisdom asked for it up above. In His gardens of glory and beauty. Which bloom with a verdure fair. He has plucked our treasured flower. And planted it safely there. She was not torn from us madly. For we knew that she could not stay. An Angel came and kissed her. And bore her gently away. We will think of her ever as happy. And not 'neath the growing sod; But a flower that is blooming and fragrant In the loving care of God.

Cheer Up Mary Ellen

says I to the Madame when I arrived at my vine and pig sty last evening. "I've a pass for the show!" To which she naturally replied "What show?" and I, unfeelingly remarked: "Chauffer!" "That auto be a good show," was all she said. There isn't much looking in this lumber and bath garage, but I work for a firm that believes in giving everybody a "show-for" their money. That's one show the boss thoroughly believes in, and another is to show class in everything we handle. No odds and ends or job lots in the Kellogg Bros. Lumber Show. So come around and show yourself.
